

Elona Doda

Elona Doda has completed her higher studies in Law at the University of Tirana in 2010. After her studies, she began her professional career in non-profit organizations, working as a lawyer and project coordinator on important projects aimed at improving legal services and protecting human rights. This role helped her develop key skills in project management, collaboration, and the implementation of legal policies.

In 2018, Elona joined the State Bar, where she has served as a state attorney for over six years. She has successfully represented state institutions and protected the property interests of the state in civil and administrative court proceedings, gaining extensive experience in handling complex legal issues.

Elona has participated in professional training at prestigious organizations such as the Magisterial School and the Council of Europe, which have enhanced her professional skills and expanded her knowledge in public administration procedures. She is fluent in English and Italian and possesses advanced skills in using technology and legal software, enabling her to perform her duties with high efficiency and accuracy.

In addition to her professional work, Elona has published several articles and legal studies on various topics related to justice and legislation. She aims to continue developing her career through further studies and projects, believing that continuous education and development are key to achieving success and making a positive impact on society.
