

Idriz Haxhiaj

Idriz Haxhiaj has had a long and distinguished career in state defense institutions, law enforcement, public security, and diplomacy, with deep expertise in these fields. He has represented the Armed Forces and the Ministry of Defense in the USA, Belgium, France, and at NATO headquarters in Brussels. His academic profile includes leading several military academic institutions in the country and a long-standing engagement as a lecturer and academic collaborator at international institutions such as the NATO School in Oberammergau and the Marshall Center in Germany.

Idriz Haxhiaj continues his academic involvement at various civilian universities in Albania and Kosovo, lecturing in the fields of political and public sciences, international relations, and management and administration. His in-depth knowledge and expertise in the development and consolidation of institutions, adapting and integrating public security and defense sectors to European and Western standards, have been combined with his academic commitments, mutually enhancing the level and quality of his engagements in these areas.

He has participated in and led numerous institutional and legal reform and transformation processes within his areas of activity and is the author of many analyses, papers, and scientific research in these fields. He holds the academic title of Associate Professor
